

Hi church,

“Our calling is not primarily to be holy men and women, but to be proclaimers of the gospel of God.”

- Oswald Chambers

As we seek to live holy lives, it is important for us to ask ‘To what end? For what purpose?’ Christ taught on the Kingdom of Heaven, not just using words, but through His actions, with His life. The proclamation of the gospel demands our all and must be central to our lives as followers of the way.

Live out the gospel by following Kingdom principles, forsaking the ways of this world. For all else is meaningless in the scheme of eternity.

God bless and Shalom, Stephanie & Weisong

Feature Ministry: Street Chaplains WA

Street Chaplains are compassionate Christian volunteers who are extensively trained to provide assistance and support on the streets. They collaborate with various service providers like police, paramedics, and Indigenous services.

Their goal is to help people in need through acts of kindness, without preaching or imposing religious beliefs. Street Chaplains respect cultural diversity and are approachable by individuals of all beliefs.

They aim to create a safe environment for everyone, regardless of whether they are enjoying a night out or experiencing homelessness.

Street Chaplains are affiliated with Christian churches and undergo specialized training, with references required from their church leaders. Over twenty denominations are represented in the Street Chaplain community, and they maintain a positive relationship with the WA Heads of Churches.

(Street Chaplains info-session night at FCC Willetton on the 11th of May.)
